Why is reading with your child important?

Reading aloud...

- Stimulates your child's imagination
- Creates a bond between you and your child
- Builds vocabulary
- Improves your child's listening skills
- Develops your child's interest in reading & books

Helpful Hints:

-If your child asks for a story to be read again, Read It Again! Repetition is good!

-Choose stories that both of you will enjoy!

*Parents looking for the next book to enjoy? The Read-Aloud Family by Sarah Mackenzie is a great read!

A Note from the Director:

* If your child's extra clothing need switched out because of the arrival of cold weather, please send them in their book bag and we will send the others back home.

* Thank you for your picture orders! We were so pleased with how well LifeTouch worked with us and the students. Your orders will allow us to purchase more listening centers so that every classroom will have one!

RESOURCEFUL

...capable of dealing with difficult situations quickly and imaginatively.

1. Coach, don't control
2. Model resourcefulness
3. Support them through their struggle
4. Value effort, not perfection
5. Encourage and teach self-encouragement
